Excerpt: . the Church and Commonwealth, to have a vigilant eye how Bookes demeane themselves as well as men; and thereafter to confine, imprifon, and do fharpeft, juftice on them as malefactors: For Books are not abfolutely dead things, but doe contain a potencie of life in them to be as active as that foule was whofe progeny they are; nay they do preferve as in a violll the pureft efficacie and extraction of that living intellect that bred them. I inow they are as lively, and as vigorously productive, as thofe fabulous Dragons teeth; and being fown up and down, may chance to fpring up armed men. And yet on the other hand unlesfe warinesse be us d, as good almost kill a Man as kill a good Book; who kills a Man kills a reafonable creature, Gods Image; but hee who destroyes a...
